OVERVIEW

This catalog of publications was developed by the Illinois Department of Public Health, Office of Epidemiology and Health Systems Development, and is now maintained by the Illinois Department of Public Health Training and Resource Center Library. It is intended to assist users in identifying and obtaining publications and materials available from the Department.

This catalog is an attempt to simplify access to printed resources of the Department. Because the nature of health issues is so complex, the need for accurate, easily accessible information is very important. Your comments and suggestions regarding the content and format of this document are welcome.

The listings of available publications and materials are organized by originating unit within the Department. The largest organizational unit within the Department is the Office. Each Office is further subdivided into bureaus, centers or divisions. Bureaus, centers or divisions, in turn, are often subdivided into sections, units or programs. The materials available are listed under the appropriate division, section or program. Publications available in languages other than English are listed separately.

Contacts for obtaining the publications listed in this catalog are noted within each segment. Publications available from the Department's Center for Health Statistics may be ordered by using the form on page 17. An order form for copies of the Office of Health Care Regulation's Directory of Long-Term Care Facilities is on page 44. Many useful publications and other information can also be found on the Department's web site: <http://www.idph.state.il.us>.

DIRECTOR'S OFFICE

DIVISION OF COMMUNICATIONS

1. After the Flood

Flood victims can discover ways to protect themselves against diseases and other hazards that may occur as a result of flooding.

2. Summer? No Sweat

Avoid some of the health and safety hazards associated with warmer weather. This summer survival guide contains information on heat exhaustion, insect bites, swimming pool safety, safe food handling and other topics.

3. Surviving Disasters: A Citizens Emergency Handbook

Learn how to prepare for and cope with natural and man-made disasters such as tornadoes, floods, earthquakes, nuclear power plant emergencies and others.

4. Weathering Winter

Winter health advice and safety tips to avoid hazards associated with the season; covers topics such as furnace and fireplace safety, safe winter driving, influenza, frostbite and more.

5. After the Flood Emergency Preparedness Manual

Brings together information about public health and safety issues that may arise after a major flood and about additional resources and programs that may help flood victims start the process of recovery. Includes sections on safety, food, water and hygiene, disease and injury control, mental health, and pest control.

6. Heat Bulletin

Answers commonly asked questions about hot weather and heat-related illnesses and how to safely cope with these conditions. Includes a heat index table.

7. The Rise and Fall of Disease in Illinois, Vols. 1 and 2

Written and first published in 1927, this two-volume work covers the first 50 years of Illinois' public health efforts to overcome infectious diseases, such as typhoid and smallpox, and to conquer the inadequate sanitary conditions that threatened the state's water and food supplies.

8. A History of the Illinois Department of Public Health, Vol. 1 (1927-1962) and Vol. 2 (1962-1977)

These two volumes continue the historical overview of the Department's efforts to ensure the health and safety of Illinois' citizens.

9. I Decide television and radio ads

A variety of 30-second and 60-second radio and television ads about All Smoke High (ASH) are available. These ads, which have received air play around the state, focus on a fictional high school where students are required to smoke. Use of the ads as public service announcements or as paid placements must be coordinated through the Division of Communications.

10. I Decide posters

Six 17" x 22" posters – printed in orange, black and white – provide different messages about why teens should not use tobacco.

11. I Decide recruitment kit for teens

Designed to introduce teens to the I Decide campaign, the kit contains a welcome from the teen advisory panel plus a copy of the most recent issue of Identity, the I Decide newsletter, and other materials encouraging young people to not use tobacco.

12. I Decide recruitment kit for educators

Similar to the kit for teens, this collection of materials includes everything teachers and counselors need to recruit teens for the anti-tobacco campaign: posters, an educational video about the first year of I Decide, ID pledge cards and support cards.

13. I Decide brochure

Teens in Winnebago County formed their own youth-led anti-tobacco movement: I Decide. This brochure provides an overview of the campaign and some fascinating facts about smoking and the tobacco industry.

14. I Decide: The First Year, 2000-2001

A 15-minute VHS tape narrated by Bill Kurtis that traces the initial year of the I Decide program in Winnebago County.

Statement of Illinois Law on Advance Directives

Summarizes Illinois law regarding advance directives. An advance directive is a written statement about how a person wants medical decisions to be made when he or she can no longer make them. Federal law requires a person be told of the right to make an advance directive when he or she is admitted to a health facility. Illinois has three advance directives: health care power of attorney, living will and mental health treatment preference declaration.

ILLINOIS CENTER FOR HEALTH STATISTICS

Vital Statistics Publications

Vital statistics publications are based largely or entirely on data collected through the vital records system of Illinois. Included in this system are births, deaths, marriages and divorces. Certain publications are annual and seek to establish yearly benchmarks in critical areas of health status. Others are cyclical, recurring every five years. This enables the user to follow trends in key areas, such as suicide or homicide.

Occasionally, a topic is viewed as so important that a monograph or supplement to the vital statistics annual is developed. Whatever the topic or type of publication, it is valuable to recognize that hard copy documents are only one part of the entire vital statistics information system. Microfiche, sterilized tapes (names and social security numbers not reported) and floppy disks also serve as media for more detailed data than that furnished in hard copy documents.

General Publications

Database and Datafile Resource Guide (August 1999)

A compendium of currently used data set descriptions, listing such items as purpose, design, contact person, location, limitations, restrictions and accessing. An index of data elements is cross-referenced to each referred data file.

Vital Statistics Illinois (annual)

A summary of births, deaths, marriages and divorces among Illinois residents. Birth and death data are reported by county and for the larger cities of the state. This volume also briefly recounts the vital statistics reporting system and cause-of-death classification.

These summaries are available for the following years:

1990	1992	1994	1996	1998
1991	1993	1995	1997

Illinois Health Report Series

The Illinois Health Report Series was initiated in late 1981. It is designed to provide data users with a source of Illinois-specific health data. Typical reports address long-term care, hospital use, health interview studies and life expectancy. Reports are available in hard copy or on microfiche.

1. 90-1 Population Data for Illinois: 1988 (May 1990)

A source for population estimates and data; population trends and other highlights are included along with estimate methodology and a listing of sources for other information.

2. 90-2 Health Care in Rural Illinois: Recommendations of the Rural Health Task Force (April 1990)

Significant changes in rural health care delivery call for the development of innovative strategies. This document summarizes the work of the Rural Health Task Force and offers recommendations to increase access to health care in rural areas.

3. 91-1 1990 Census Population Data for Illinois Counties and Incorporated Places (March 1992)

Contains 1990 census data for total population by race for Illinois counties and incorporated places, text sections on data trends and highlights, and a discussion on 1990 census data.

4. 91-3 Annual Summary of Nutrition Surveillance Data, 1989 (March 1992)

Key data findings derived from a total of 211,625 records of infants and children in the Illinois WIC program. Nutritional data are particularly useful in planning.

5. 91-4 1988-89 Long-term Care Report (May 1992)

Updated data collected by an annual survey of long-term care facilities, includes characteristics of long-term care facilities and their residents.

6. 95-1 Public Health and Health Reform in Illinois: An Illinois Department of Public Health Perspective (Spring 1994)

7. 97-1 Illinois Population Estimates, 1994 and 1995 (January 1998)

A source for population estimates and data; population trends and other highlights are included along with estimate methodology for the state, counties and cities.

8. 98-1 Illinois Population Estimates, 1995 and 1996 (January 1999)

A source for population estimates and data; population trends and other highlights are included along with estimate methodology for the state, counties and cities.

9. 99-1 Illinois Population Estimates, 1996 and 1997 (October 1999)

A source for population estimates and data; population trends and other highlights are included along with estimate methodology for the state, counties and cities.

Vital Statistics Basic Research Series

This quarterly series was initiated October 1996. Each issue of about eight pages contains an original research article involving an aspect of Illinois vital statistics and the latest vital statistics data for Illinois, Chicago and counties.

1. 1-1 Vital Statistics Basic Research Series Vol. 1, No. 1 (October 1996)
Years of potential life lost for Illinois, Chicago and Downstate for 1994; vital statistics for 1993 and 1994.
2. 1-2 Vital Statistics Basic Research Series Vol. 1, No. 2 (January 1997)
Usefulness of experimental county estimates by age from the U.S. Bureau of the Census for calculating vital statistics; vital statistics for 1994 and 1995.
3. 1-3 Vital Statistics Basic Research Series Vol. 1, No. 3 (April 1997)
The direct and indirect mortality impacts of the July 1995 heat wave for Chicago and Downstate; vital statistics for 1994 and 1995.

Certificate-Of-Need Publications

The Certificate-of-Need (CON) program is a major state regulatory tool in the area of health facilities and equipment. While the basic purpose for collecting CON data is the implementation of statutory mandates, the data collected through this program are useful for other purposes. Annual surveys, for example, provide trend line data for the state, the regions or individual facilities in such areas as occupancy, length of stay, overall utilization and accessibility.

P) Health Facilities Planning Board Report for Fiscal Years 1999 and 2000

*NOTE: Bed inventories for hospitals and long-term care facilities are prepared at least once every three years. Due to the time lag required to prepare the document, the 1999 bed inventories contain fiscal year 1997 data.

Policy Papers and Studies

A. PT I Human Services Plan - 1992-1994: Part I Data Report, Volume 7

Description of fiscal years 1992-1994 Human Services Plan, detailing Department programs (goals, activities, data and accomplishments), with a focus on integrating and meeting the Healthy People 2000 national health objectives. Describes 16 preliminary health priorities established through the Statewide Health Needs Assessment in a succinct data presentation.

B. AC Final Report of the Acute Care Task Force (June 1992)

Overview of the work of a task force established by the Department to analyze various new models of acute health care delivery employed in other states and to recommend legislative and administrative actions to enable the development of those models that hold promise for Illinois residents. The task force recommended model legislation designed to demonstrate and evaluate alternative health care delivery models within a five-year time frame. Both birth centers and postsurgical recovery care centers were examined and recommended for study.

C. FS A Study of the Feasibility of Establishing a Health Insurance Plan for Children (June 1992)

A study conducted in conjunction with the Illinois departments of Public Aid and Insurance of the cost and feasibility of establishing a child health insurance plan to provide primary and preventive health care services to uninsured Illinois children. Reviews plans operating in other states; discusses design parameters, specifying eligibility policies, three alternative benefits packages and administrative arrangements; estimates eligible and enrolled populations and probable costs; and identifies possible financing approaches. This document was the basis for legislation introduced to the Illinois General Assembly in fiscal year 1992.

D. NA Statewide Health Needs Assessment: Towards a Healthy Illinois 2000 (September 1993)

An overview of health in Illinois adopted by the State Board of Health. The document presents and analyzes data in six major categories of indicators—demographic and socioeconomic characteristics, general health and access to care, maternal and child health, chronic diseases, infectious diseases, and environmental/occupational health and injury control—and identifies 16 preliminary priorities for program intervention. The foundation for a systematic approach to community health needs assessment, the indicators encompass most of the priority areas addressed in the Healthy People 2000 national health objectives.

E. CO Challenge and Opportunity: Public Health in an Era of Change (March 1996)

An overview of recent developments that have defined the purpose, philosophy and implementation of public health practice in Illinois, including updated discussions of each health priority area identified in Statewide Health Needs Assessment: Towards a Healthy Illinois 2000, augmented by community health problem priorities selected in the Illinois Project for Local Assessment of Needs. The document includes a prospective view of health systems changes and emerging health problems that will influence public health in the near future.

F. HPU Health Policy Update (periodic, beginning in 1995)

This series of papers was initiated in October of 1995. Each issue explores a topic in public health policy with a focus on implications for Illinois.

1. Health Policy Update Vol. 1, No. 1 (October 1995)

State Health Policy Development

2. Health Policy Update Vol. 1, No. 2 (November 1995)

Cost Benefits of Public Health Programs

3. Health Policy Update Vol. 1, No. 3 (October 1996)

Regulation Protects the Public's Health

4. Health Policy Update Vol. 2, No. 1 (March 1998)

Meeting the Challenge: Public Health Laboratories and the Health of Illinois Residents

5. Health Policy Update Vol. 2, No. 2 (May 1998)

Illinois Life Care Facilities Program

6. Health Policy Update Vol. 2, No. 3 (October 1998)

G) U1I Unit I IPLAN Training Program Manual (Spring 1996)

A manual that examines public health and community resources and strategies, as well as provides information about the Illinois Project for Local Assessment of Needs (IPLAN) process. Distributed to local health department (LHD) staff during six regional training sessions in spring 1996, the Unit I manual serves LHD staff by focusing on the program areas of assessment and implementation. The document contains a history of IPLAN; an overview of Illinois public health in transition; formulas and narrative guides for data analysis; an introduction to community health assessment tools such as the IPLAN Data System 2.0, CDC Wonder/PC, and the Illinois Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System (BRFSS); components of program implementation; and several examples of proven intervention strategies. In addition, the manual contains a glossary of health and data analysis terms as well as appendices that describe prioritization methods, community health models, IPLAN Data System 2.0, related health indicators, maternal and child health issues, and external funding sources.

H. ITP Unit II IPLAN Training Program Manual on Evaluation and Marketing of Public Health (Spring 1997)

Related lecture notes and articles on a variety of topical issues including Harris Poll survey on public health; the script for “A Day in the Life of Public Health” video; two chapters from Alan Andreasen’s “Marketing Social Change”; Internet resources on social marketing; a marketing plan shell; evaluation articles; program evaluation checklist; “Tools for Decision-Making in Marketing of Public Health”; media advocacy; glossary; and bibliography.

I. CNC Turning Point: Collaborating for a New Century in Public Health (July 1997)

Illinois is one of 14 states selected by the Robert Wood Johnson and W.J. Kellogg foundations to receive a grant to support a strategic development initiative, Turning Point: Collaborating for a New Century in Public Health. The purpose of the Illinois initiative, Public Health Futures Illinois, is to improve public health by redefining the public health system, identifying infrastructure needs and developing approaches to address these needs. To accomplish this goal, strategic partnerships from the public, private and voluntary sectors will coalesce to integrate prevention efforts in the public health system. Four partnerships, Public Health Futures Illinois, the state partnership; the Chicago Partnership; the (Will County) Partnership for a Healthier Community; and the Decatur Community/Macon County Partnership were funded by the foundations to conduct the initiative, during calendar years 1998 and 1999. Local partnerships will receive support through calendar years 1998, 1999, and 2000. The state’s letter of intent describes Illinois’ readiness to embark on a renewed strategic planning process. The Illinois application provides a detailed work plan for accomplishing the initiative’s goals and objectives.

J. IPR Suggested Guidelines for IPLAN Recertification (Spring 1998)

Step by step guide for local health departments regarding recertification requirements addressing the Illinois Project for Local Assessment of Needs (IPLAN) on community health needs assessment and community health planning.

K. IPU IPLAN Update 1999

A videotape of the teleconference originally broadcast on March 23, 1999, this training film reviews the IPLAN recertification process and updates viewers on the latest version of the IPLAN Data System. The 75-minute video includes presentations by Office of Epidemiology and Health Systems Development staff and panel responses to questions called in by teleconference participants.

L. PHS Illinois Plan for Public Health Systems Change (March 2000)

Increasing expectations that public health practice will encompass sweeping social problems has prompted recognition of a need for an expanded concept of a public health system. The Public Health Futures Illinois (PHFI) partnership was created to promote an inclusive concept of the broad public health system and to strategically plan the future of prevention-focused public health practice. The partnership represents public, private and voluntary institutions, and has been funded since its formation in 1997 by the State of Illinois and a grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation's initiative Turning Point: Collaborating for a New Century in Public Health. The Illinois Plan for Public Health Systems Change presents PHFI assessment findings and recommendations for strategic public health systems priorities, as well as in initial health policy agenda.

Breast and Cervical Cancer Profile, Illinois, 1986-1994

This profile was produced to evaluate the status of Illinois women. Both the average age-adjusted breast and cervical cancer mortality rates for Illinois women from 1988 through 1994 remain above the Healthy People 2000 goals. However, more breast cancers are being detected at earlier stages among both black and white women and in younger as well as older age groups. Mammography screening programs initiated in 1987 may be having an impact.

Illinois State Cancer Registry Public Data Set

In ASCII format, sanitized individual records of cancer incidence among Illinois residents diagnosed from 1986 through 1998 in four-year groups: 1986-1990, 1987-1991, 1988-1992, 1989-1993, 1990-1994, 1991-1995, 1992-1996, 1993-1997, 1994-1998. Separate files are available for the state, county and ZIP Code area by four-year groups. Confidentiality is maintained by aggregating data within individual records into categories, the number of which depend on the size of the geographic area.

The files include incidence data for invasive cancers only with the exception of cancer of the bladder. Carcinoma in situ of the breast is provided in a separate category. Non-melanoma skin cancers, cases reported with unknown or "other" sex and cases with an unknown age are omitted.

Identification of cancer cases in ISCR depends on reporting by hospitals as mandated by state law. Reporting from Illinois hospitals is considered to be 98 percent complete. In addition, ISCR has agreements with other central cancer registries in Arkansas, California, Florida, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming, the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota and Barnes Jewish Hospital in St. Louis to exchange cancer data. Completeness of out-of-state reporting depends on the years of operation of these other central registries, the extent of their identification of out-of-state residents and their standards of quality.

Epidemiologic Report Series (ERS):

- 1. Skin Cancer of the Scrotum in Illinois: Surveillance of a Sentinel Occupational Cancer, ERS 88:2 (January 1989)

The epidemiology of the disease during the period 1985 to 1987; includes the implications of these results for active cancer surveillance by the Illinois State Cancer Registry.

2. Angiosarcoma of the Liver in Illinois: Surveillance of a Sentinel Health Event, ERS 88:2 (January 1989)

The epidemiology of the disease in Illinois during the period 1985 through 1987; discusses implications of these results for active cancer surveillance by the Illinois State Cancer Registry.

3. Potter's Syndrome in Illinois, ERS 88:6 (January 1989)

The incidence in Illinois and selected clinical aspects; data were collected from reports to the Adverse Pregnancy Outcomes Reporting System for the period of July 1987 through June 1988.

4. Smoking in Illinois: Economic Costs and Deaths Attributable to Cigarette Smoking in the State, 1985, ERS 89:1 (March 1989)

Details on deaths and the economic costs attributable to smoking in Illinois. Estimates were developed using essentially the same methods as those of the national Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, but incorporating the analysis information on smoking in Illinois from the Illinois Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance Survey for 1985.

5. Pediatric Cancer Incidence in Illinois, 1986-1987, ERS 89:3 (December 1989)

Incidence data are presented by diagnostic group, race, sex and age.

6. Kaposi's Sarcoma in Illinois: A Comparison of AIDS Cases to Classic Cases, ERS 89:4 (November 1989)

A comparison of acquired immunodeficiency syndrome/Kaposi's sarcoma (KS) cases with KS cases for 1986 through 1987 by demographic characteristics and clinical presentation.

7. Cancer Incidence by Region of Birth Among Blacks in Cook County, ERS 90:1 (April 1990)

Cancer incidence rates among blacks and whites in Cook County, with particular focus on variations in cancer incidence rates among blacks, by region of birth.

8. Cancer Incidence in Hispanics and Non-Hispanic Whites in Cook County, Illinois, ERS 90:3 (December 1989)

Age-specific and age-adjusted cancer incidence rates from 1986 to 1987 are presented in tables by site and sex.

9. Maternal Smoking and Adverse Pregnancy Outcomes, ERS 90:4 (July 1990)

Compares smoking and nonsmoking mothers and describes characteristics of the smoking mothers using data collected from reports to the Adverse Pregnancy Outcomes Reporting System between July 1987 and August 1988.

10. Mesothelioma in Illinois, 1985-1987, ERS 90:6 (September 1990)

Discusses implications of the results for active cancer surveillance by the Illinois State Cancer Registry. Tables present mesothelioma cases by sex, race, age and occupation.

11. Neuroblastoma: A Descriptive Study of Cases Diagnosed in Illinois Children Less Than 15 Years Old in 1985-1988, ERS 90:7 (November 1990)

Describes the reported occurrence of neuroblastoma in its relation to age, sex, race, method of diagnosis, stage of disease at diagnosis and geographical distribution of cases by county.

12. An Epidemiologic Analysis of the Morphologic Types of Cancer of the Esophagus, ERS 91:1 (April 1991)

Data from the Illinois State Cancer Registry from 1986 through 1988 were analyzed to examine the epidemiologic features of the two morphologic types of esophageal cancer: squamous cell carcinoma and adenocarcinoma.

13. Exposure Study of Volatile Organic Compounds in Southeast Rockford, ERS 91:3 (August 1991)

This study, conducted with technical assistance from the federal Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry, evaluated blood levels of volatile organic compounds in residents of southeast Rockford after elevated levels of these compounds were found in the groundwater.

14. Surveillance of Pesticide Poisonings in Illinois, ERS 92:1 (November 1992)

Addresses the issue of pesticide poisoning surveillance in Illinois. The specific objectives were 1) to determine the incidence of pesticide poisoning in Illinois using existing disease and hazard databases, 2) to compare the utility of these existing databases for statewide surveillance of pesticide poisoning and 3) to recommend a strategy for active surveillance of pesticide poisonings in Illinois.

15. An Algorithm for Matching Anonymous Hospital Discharge Records Used in Occupational Disease Surveillance: Anonymous Record Matching Algorithm, ERS 92:2 (March 1992)

Describes the development of an algorithm to match anonymous hospital discharge records collected from Illinois hospitals. Based on the assumption that specific combinations of occupational disease code, sex, ZIP code and date of birth would identify an individual with multiple hospitalizations. Matches with the algorithm reduced the 1986 case estimates from 597 to 499 for all cases of coal workers' pneumoconiosis, asbestosis and silicosis.
16. Epidemiology of Retinopathy of Prematurity in Illinois, ERS 92:3 (June 1992)

Describes the epidemiologic characteristics of infants with retinopathy of prematurity as reported to the Adverse Pregnancy Outcomes Reporting System from July 1987 through December 1988.
17. Urban-Rural Differences in the Management of Breast Cancer, ERS 93:1 (February 1993)

A population-based study with medical record review of breast cancer patients as part of a larger study of an oncology outreach program to improve cancer management for rural patients within community hospitals. Compares the breast cancer care received by the rural population before the oncology outreach program with that of the contiguous urban population.
18. Surveillance of Sentinel Occupational Cancers, ERS 93:2 (August 1993)

Describes incidence of three cancers identified as almost exclusively associated with occupation: cancer of the skin of the scrotum, angiosarcoma of the liver, and mesothelioma. A fourth cancer, bladder cancer, is associated with both occupation and smoking. Bladder cancer cases associated with occupation are most likely to occur in males aged 35-64 years, so surveillance of occupational bladder cancer is confined to these males.
19. Trends in Infant Mortality, ERS 93:3 (May 1993)

Evaluates risks by linking birth and death certificates and offers a detailed analysis of the major components of infant mortality. Data from the 1980 to 1989 matched birth-death files were examined to determine trends in the infant mortality risks for white and black Illinois infants by age at death and leading causes of death.
20. Effectiveness of an Oncology Outreach Program, ERS 93:4 (May 1993)

In late 1987, the Rural Illinois Cancer Consortium (RICC) was formed with five rural hospitals to improve access to state-of-the-art care in a patient's community by bringing expertise to the rural community hospitals on a regular basis. This study used medical record reviews to compare breast cancer treatment received by patients seen in the rural hospitals affiliated with RICC in contrast to those seen in other rural facilities.

21. Cancer in Illinois Infants, 1986-1988, ERS 93:5 (June 1993)

A record-linkage study of cancer and associated adverse pregnancy outcomes in infants younger than 1 year of age described by cancer groups, race and sex. Data were collected from reports to the Adverse Pregnancy Outcomes Reporting System and the Illinois State Cancer Registry.

22. Occupational Injuries in Illinois, 1987-1989, ERS 93:6 (January 1994)

Five injuries identified as likely to be occupation-related: lead poisoning; metal poisonings other than lead; crushing injury to the lower arm; thumb or finger amputation; and chemical burns to the eye. Hospital discharge records were used to estimate incident cases, to assess the burden of occupational injuries on low-income persons and to identify potential geographical clusters.

23. Breast and Cervical Cancer Surveillance in Illinois, ERS 93:7 (July 1993)

Mortality and age-, race- and stage-specific incidence data are used to identify populations in need of more intensive cancer control interventions.

24. Birth Defects in Illinois Surveillance Report, 1989-1992, ERS 93:8 (July 1993)

Presents trends and summaries of the Adverse Pregnancy Outcomes Reporting System (APORS) for children born between January 1, 1989, and December 31, 1992.

25. Effect of Interstate Data Exchange on Cancer Rates in Illinois, 1986-1990, ERS 94:1 (April 1994)

Demonstrates the impact of both intrastate and interstate case ascertainment on state and local cancer rates.

26. Trends in Selected Maternal Characteristics Associated with Infant Mortality, Illinois, 1980-1989, ERS 94:2 (March 1994)

Uses data from the matched birth-death files to describe recent trends in maternal characteristics that have been identified in previous research as strongly related to infant mortality.

27. Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries, Illinois, 1992, ERS 94:3 (August 1994)

Presents data on fatal occupational injuries in Illinois for 1992, as compiled for the Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries.

28. Prostate Cancer in Illinois, 1986-1992, ERS 94:6 (December 1994)

Provides incidence and mortality information on prostate cancer in Illinois. Annual rates and comparison information of Illinois data with U.S. rates describe the impact of this disease on Illinois males.

29. Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries, Illinois, 1993, ERS 94:7 (December 1994)
Presents data on fatal occupational injuries and illnesses in Illinois for 1993, as compiled for the Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries.
30. Birth Defects in Chicago and the State of Illinois Surveillance Report, 1989-1993, ERS 94:8 (October 1994)
Reports the prevalence of birth defects among Illinois and Chicago newborns from 1992 and 1993. Presents the quarterly trends since 1989 by birth defect category for Illinois.
31. Race Differences in Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, Illinois, 1980-1989, ERS 95:2 (March 1995)
Sudden infant deaths syndrome (SIDS) accounted for more than 50 percent of the difference in mortality between black and white infants in Illinois during 1980-1989. Of the total deaths due to SIDS, 51 percent occurred among black infants for a mortality rate of 4.24 per 1,000 live births or 143 black infant deaths each year. The disease was the leading cause of infant death among black infants, accounting for nearly 19 percent of all black deaths but 46 percent of all black postneonatal deaths.
32. Gender Differences in Assaults and Violence in the Workplace, United States, 1993, ERS 95:3 (April 1995)
Violence has emerged as a major public health issue for the 1990s. Male victims were more likely to be Hispanic, foreign born and workers in urban counties in the Northeast. They were more likely to be self-employed, working in protective services or transportation, and killed on the street. Females were most often victims in the morning hours after sunrise and were more likely to be working for pay in rural counties, employed in office work or social services, and assaulted in a public building.
33. Using BRFSS Data For Small Area Analysis of Cancer Screening Behaviors, ERS 95:5 (June 1995)
Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System (BRFSS) data on breast and cervical cancer screening behaviors for 1987 to 1991 were aggregated into one data set. All Illinois counties were classified in one of four sub-state regions based on population size, population density and Beale codes. Regions were compared on screening behaviors and their associations with age, race, income and education. The prevalence of these behaviors did not vary widely among regions. However, in each region, the associations with age, race, income and education did. These characteristics are important in segmenting target populations for successful intervention. Describes a useful technique to use BRFSS data for small area analysis that did not compromise statistically meaningful interpretation.

34. Epidemiology of Ovarian Cancer in Illinois, ERS 96:2 (February 1996)

A review of the epidemiology of ovarian cancer by age; family history; reproductive, hormonal, menstrual and endocrinologic history; and environmental carcinogens. Mortality, as well as incidence data, for Illinois are presented. Characteristics of Illinois women diagnosed with ovarian cancer also are summarized.

35. Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries, Illinois, 1994, ERS 96:3 (April 1996)

In 1994, 247 occupational fatalities occurred in Illinois. Those industries with the greatest number of fatalities included construction, agriculture, and wholesale and retail trade. All these industries, with the exception of wholesale and retail trade, had a higher risk of workplace fatalities relative to their share of the workforce. Transportation incidents were the leading fatal event for men, while the leading fatal event for women was assaults and violent acts.

36. Increased Prostate Cancer in Illinois: A Screening Effect or Improved Casefinding? ERS 96:4 (May 1996)

Incomplete case ascertainment of newly diagnosed cancer of the prostate has been a concern of the population-based, central cancer registry in Illinois. During the early 1990s, and even before in some places, increases of 20 percent and more in the incidence of the disease were observed. This increase was attributed largely to the introduction of diagnostic serum prostate-specific antigen (PSA) assays, which resulted in earlier ascertainment of clinically-occult disease, rather than noting actual changes in the frequency of the disease. This study compares the expected increasing trends in the incidence of prostate cancer among the three facility types to determine whether the increase in federal facilities was greater and might be attributable to more complete casefinding.

37. Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries, Illinois, 1995, ERS 97:1 (January 1997).

Monitors all fatal work injuries, collects information on the circumstances and characteristics of the decedent. This report describes the 249 occupational fatalities that occurred in Illinois in 1995.

38. Lead Poisoning Prevention with States in Collaboration with Local Health Departments: A Model for Intervention Related to Lead Poisoning in Indoor Firing Ranges, ERS 97:2 (January 1997)

The results of the Department's collaboration with local health departments to develop a model for intervention related to lead poisoning in small businesses.

39. A Case Control Study of Multiple Myeloma in Decatur, Illinois, ERS 97:3 (February 1997)

Discusses results of the case-control study of multiple myeloma to determine whether cases, who were residents of Decatur, Illinois, were more likely to have worked in an industry or occupation whose exposures are associated with the development of multiple myeloma and whether cases were more likely to have been long-term residents of the city of Decatur, Illinois.

40. Cancer Incidence and Age at Northern Migration of African Americans in Illinois, 1986-1991, ERS 97:4 (April 1997)

Compares the proportional cancer incidence of Illinois-born African - Americans with those who migrated to Illinois from southern U.S. states as children and adults, and with African-American residents of the South.

41. Birth Defects in Illinois: A Report on Mortality and County-specific Prevalence at Birth, ERS 97:6 (June 1997)

There are two sections of this report. The first provides descriptive information on county-specific birth defects prevalence rates at birth diagnosed in Illinois newborns from 1989 through 1994. The second examines the mortality experience of Illinois newborn infants diagnosed with birth defects ascertained from a population-based adverse pregnancy outcomes reporting system.

42. Silica Exposure in Artificial Nail Application Salons, ERS 97:8 (December 1997)

This report describes the results of the Department's study on the exposure rate for silica in five nail salons in Illinois.

43. Osteoporosis in Illinois: Analysis of Hospital Discharge Records from 1992 to 1995, ERS 97:9 (December 1997)

This report assesses the health and financial impact of osteoporosis on populations in Illinois by analysis of hospital discharge records from all acute care hospitals in Illinois from 1992 to 1995.

44. Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries, Illinois, 1996. ERS 97:10 (February 1998)

The Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries monitors all fatal work injuries, collecting information on the circumstances of the injury and characteristics of the decedent. This report describes the 262 occupational fatalities that occurred in Illinois in 1996.

45. The Silicosis in Illinois Project, 1992-1997. ERS 97:12 (March 1998)

This report describes the results of the Department's study of the Silicosis in Illinois program that identifies silicosis cases and the attempts to identify the work site source for the exposure. Once the work site is identified, remedial action is attempted to prevent additional silicosis cases.

46. Surveillance of Adult Lead Exposure, April 1990-December 1997. ERS 98:1 (April 1998)

A report on the registry's on-going surveillance of elevated blood lead levels in adults, including areas of exposures, companies involved in exposures and findings of the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration's work site investigations.

47. Hispanic Identification in the Illinois State Cancer Registry, ERS 98:2 (August 1998)

Describes a comprehensive study of direct and indirect Hispanic identification using the Illinois State Cancer Registry database. An algorithm developed from the described study now serves as the basis for Hispanic identification of cases in ISCR.

48. Hispanic Identification on Illinois Cancer Death Certificates, ERS 98:3 (September 1998)

Describes a comprehensive study of direct and indirect Hispanic identification on Illinois cancer death certificates. An algorithm developed from the described study now serves as a basis for Hispanic identification of cancer deaths in Illinois. The described study parallels that described in Epi Series 98:2 so that Hispanics are identified similarly on the ISCR database and on Illinois death certificate files for division reports and research on the ethnic group.

49. Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries, Illinois, 1997, ERS 99:2 (May 1999)

The Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries monitors all fatal work injuries, collecting information on the circumstances of the injury and characteristics of the decedent. This report describes the occupational fatalities that occurred in Illinois in 1997.

50. Trends in the Prevalence of birth defects in Illinois and Chicago 1989 to 1997, ERS 99:4 (October 1999)

Presents the prevalence of birth defects among Illinois and Chicago newborns from 1989 to 1997 as collected by the Adverse Pregnancy Outcomes Reporting System.

51. Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries, Illinois, 1998, ERS 99:5 (October 1999)

Describes the 216 occupational fatalities that occurred in Illinois in 1998 as collected by the Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries.

52. Report of the Status of Cancer in Illinois, ERS 00:1 (March 2000)

Report evaluating Illinois cancer incidence from 1990-1997 and mortality from 1990-1998, the most current data available as of December 1999.

53. Adverse Pregnancy Outcomes in Illinois: County-specific Prevalence and Related infant Mortality 1989-1998, ERS 00:4 (April 2000)

Describes prevalence rates of birth defects and other conditions from 1989-1998 for all 102 Illinois counties. Evaluates infant mortality rates among infants with Adverse Pregnancy Outcomes in Illinois from 1989-1997.

54. Workplace Non-fatal Injuries and Illnesses, Illinois, 1998, ERS 00:5 (July 2000)

Describes the characteristics of non-fatal injuries and illnesses in Illinois for 1998 as collected by the Occupational Safety and Health Survey.

55. Patterns of Cancer Among Asians and Pacific Islanders in Illinois, Incidence, 1993-1997, Mortality, 1992-1998, ERS 00:6 (September 2000)

Evaluates cancer incidence for 1993 to 1998 and cancer mortality for 1992-1998 to describe patterns of cancer among Asians and Pacific Islanders residing in Illinois.

56. Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries, Illinois, 1999, ERS 00:7 (December 2000)

Describes the 208 occupational fatalities that occurred in Illinois in 1999 as collected by the Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries.

57. Cancers of the Colon and Rectum: Evidence of Disparities between Blacks and Whites in Illinois, ERS 00:8 (December 2000)

Evaluates colorectal cancer with emphasis on black/white comparisons using Illinois State Cancer Registry incidence data for 1986 to 1997 and Illinois mortality data from 1979 to 1998.

58. Illinois Cancer Statistics Review, Incidence, 1986-1998, Mortality, 1986-1998, ERS 01:1 (January 2001)

Annual cancer incidence for 1986-1998 and mortality for 1986-1998 in Illinois are reported for all races, whites, blacks, and Asian/other races by sex. Hispanic and non-Hispanic cancer incidence for 1989 to 1998 and cancer mortality for 1986 to 1998 are also included in this report.

59. Illinois County Cancer Statistics Review, Incidence, 1994-1998, ERS 01:2 (January 2001)

Report presenting cancer incidence in Illinois' 102 counties for 1994-1998. County-specific cancer incidence data and projected cancer incidence counts for five-year time periods are also presented.

60. Workplace Non-Fatal Injuries and Illnesses, Illinois, 1999, ERS 01:3 (June 2001)

Describes the characteristics of non-fatal injuries and illnesses in Illinois for 1999 as collected by the Occupational Safety and Health Survey.
